

WALKING AND BIKING ON DENVER'S E 16TH AVE SHARED STREET

Since Denver designated East 16th Avenue in the City Park West neighborhood a Shared Street, the number of people walking and biking on the street has increased dramatically compared to previous time periods.

On warmer weather days, the total number of people walking and biking ranged from about 1,000 to nearly 1,800, compared to an average of about 360 people biking per day in 2015.

Note: These counts measure people traveling in the street and exclude people walking on the sidewalk.
