

14th Avenue Open Streets Demonstration

JULY 2022 PROJECT REPORT

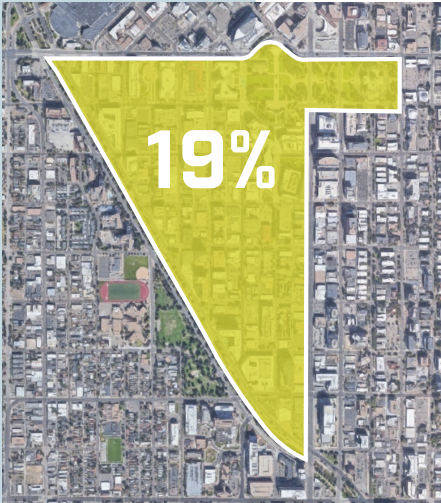

The Denver Streets Partnership collaborated with the Civic Center Conservancy to host an Open Streets demonstration on 14th Avenue between Bannock Street and Acoma Street, south of Civic Center Park, in the Golden Triangle neighborhood on July 31, 2022.

Our demonstration, part of "Day in the Park" at Civic Center, aimed at encouraging casual park use, closed the street to vehicles to prioritize people walking and biking. Elements of the demonstration included shaded seating areas, games and kids' activities, planters buffering the bike lane, and an enhanced pedestrian crossing at Acoma Street. The following are results from a survey of participants at the event.

"As a biker, I love concepts like this and wish it would extend to miles of continuous streets."

Do you live in the Golden Triangle neighborhood?

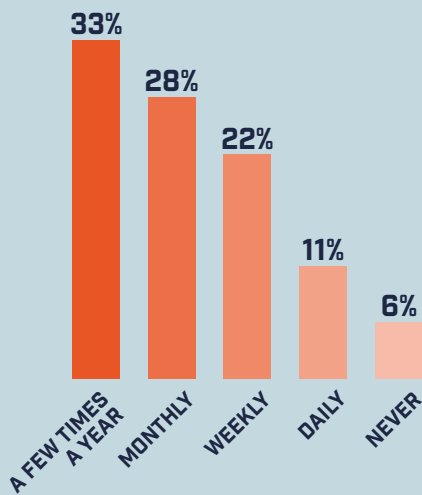

Would you want a permanent open street on 14th Avenue?

72% SAID YES

In three words, describe your experience.

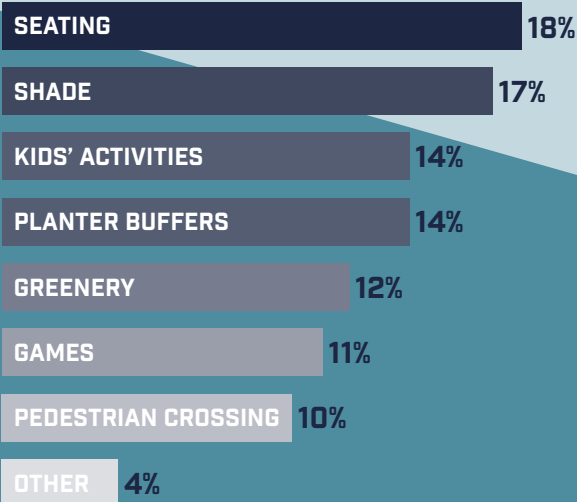

How often do you come to Civic Park?

“Overall, I enjoyed the Open Streets demonstration.”

What elements of the Open Streets demonstration were your favorite?

RECOMMENDATION

Experiment with regular Open Streets events and move to permanent Open Streets in the long term.